- all fresh, locally grown and in-season – plus art and inspiration. That's what you can expect from Southsea Greenhouse!

If you want great produce that's grown nearby, rather than flown in from halfway round the world, go and see them. They also have some local artists, creating fabulous and unique craft-works. They are an ethical trader and source stock from charities, local growers and artists.

Southsea Greenhouse is a new flower and food Co-op based in the red and white striped hut on Southsea Prom, just to the right of South Parade Pier. They are actively hunting for winter premises, and land to cultivate our plants, to sustain this social enterprise, and retain our volunteers in the colder months ahead. Please contact them if you have a good idea for venue, or if they could "pop up" in your organisation.

Would your business like to sample some fresh local produce, or would you host their "pop-up market stall" to promote their home/workplace delivery scheme? They will pay 50p for every box delivered, into your funds or chosen charity. And you will be supporting a local Co-operative, to improve the seafront and to offer shoppers more choice.

Every box is tailored to suit each customer, to a specific list or full of surprises, and delivered to your work-place for free, or to a home address for £1. Ordering is easy, just download their price list from their website www.southsea.greenhouse.co.uk and send an email or a text with your order and the best time for delivery, then sit back and relax... Thank you for thinking differently.
